

Bronze and Sunflower

I enjoyed when Bronze's family took in Sunflower as I thought it was a kind thing to do, when your poor.

I could picture the part when the lightning took out Sunflower's dad as the author used lots of good words.

I learned life in China and all the reeds were so useful to make lovely reed shoes.

The duck was very useful to acknowledge as I never knew there was such thing as duck soup.

The story was about a boy called Bronze who took in a orphaned Sunflower. In one part of the story they Sunflower went to a big city to get nuts to earn money for Bronze to go to school as at the moment only Sunflower went to school.

It was fun and I enjoyed it.
